

Time To Thrive 2005 Business Conference & EXPO

The Chamber's "Time To Thrive" 2005 Business Conference & EXPO at the San Jose McEnery Convention Center attracted more than 2,000 attendees and showcased 150 exhibitors during the all-day event on May 10.

Highlights of the day's events included a Cisco Systems-Oya Group breakfast with keynote speaker Jay Conrad Levinson, author of "Guerrilla Marketing"; Comerica Bank Ebby's Awards Luncheon with political satirist Will Durst; and top-notch speakers on a wide range of business topics throughout the day during the Lockheed Martin Seminar Series.

During the Bank of America Business Expo the recipients of "Best Booth" awards were Yellow Cab for Best in Show; Togo's for Best Tasting; Xerox Federal Credit Union for Most Creative; and the Silicon Valley/San Jose Business Journal for Best Action.

Presenter Kathleen Ronald outlines one of the finer points of networking at her standing-room only presentation during the Lockheed Martin Seminar Series.

San Jose Vice Mayor Cindy Chavez and Mayor Ron Gonzales share a hearty laugh during political satirist Will Durst's humorous address at the Comerica Bank EBBY Awards luncheon.

Comedian Will Durst kept the luncheon crowd laughing with his political quips and insightful commentary.
